The chief characteristics of modern drama.

5) The drama which suffered a steep decline during the Victorian age was revived with great force in 20th century. There were many new trends and currents during that time.

The modernistic drama was much less innovative in style and technique than it was in its prose and novel.

The modern drama falls into three parts:-

The first and earliest modernist drama is marked the plays of G.B. Shaw, John Galsworthy which constitute the category of social drama of written by Ibsen.

The second and the middle phase of modernist drama comprises plays of Irish nationalist elites like Yeats. It contained the spirit of nationalism.

The third and the last phase of modernist drama comprises the plays of T.S. Eliot and Christopher Fry.
